at upper left. Silver lake is the name of the just-barely inland lake that's being slowly but surely filled in by the shifting sands of Silver Dunes at left. Silver lake is rather large; Hann took this photograph from an altitude of 4,000 feet. Winds off Lake Michigan pile beach sand farther and farther inland, possibly because protective trees, may have been stripped from dunes at some relatively recent date.

PAY BETTER, BEING SHOT LESS LIKELY

So Deputy Quits For A New Job

Gary Mitchell
Leaves Berrien
'With Sorrow'

By JIM SHANAHAN
BII City Editor

One of Berrien county's best-liked policemen is hanging up his sheriff's department badge to enter another field of law enforcement.

Sgt. Gary D. Mitchell, 31, announced his resignation effective Dec. 25. Mitchell said he will become an officer for the Michigan Public Service Commission on Jan. 1.

Mitchell blamed low pay for leaving and said he was taking a job with starting salary $1,200 more than he is making now.

HITS AT SUPERVISORS
He also took a crack at the county board of supervisors for failing to provide deputies "a decent living wage."

Salary negotiations are now underway between the board and sheriff's officers. "I hope the Berrien county supervisors will give the deputies the raise they have been trying to get and deserved for some time," Mitchell wrote in a letter of resignation to Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell.

Mitchell was wounded Dec. 3, 1965, in a robbery of the Fairplain Plaza branch of Farmers and Merchants National bank. Deputy Elton Stover also was shot in the robbery and died a week later. For bravery, Stover posthumously and Mitchell received "Liberty Bell" awards from the Berrien Bar association.

Highway truck safety will be Mitchell's assignment with the Public Service commission. Mitchell, his wife, Minnie, and sons, Craig Michael, and Mark, will move from Benton township to Grand Rapids where he will be stationed.

Sheriff's officers are lower paid than three Twin City municipal departments. Patrolmen start at $5,811 and go to $8,105 after a year.

'GREAT SORROW'
Mitchell said the resignation was submitted with "great sorrow." He thanked the sheriff, fellow officers and friends for their help "with my job to make this county a better place for everyone to live in."

Sheriff Jewell was out of town and not available for comment. Excerpts from Mitchell's letter to Jewell said:

"When I joined this department approximately seven years ago, I found there were a lot of laws to be enforced and that an officer needed a great deal of compassion in dealing with people, and I feel that with my time with this department, I have gotten to know the laws and learned a lot about compassion and understanding. It appears that the supervisors feel you put a uniform on a person, give him a badge and a gun and he becomes a police officer. You and I both know this is not true, that it takes many years for a man to become a good police officer."

"I feel I have reached this point so what have the supervisors gained? Nothing, for I am leaving, as have many other men and other good men are thinking strongly about finding other jobs. Unless the supervisors will get together with these men and give them a decent wage, you and the voters of this county will have many more inexperienced police officers on this department."

Bar Okays Successor For Wright

Choose Clement
In Van Buren

ATTY. WILLIAM CLEMENT

PAW PAW — William Clement, 53, a Gobles attorney, has been recommended by the Van Buren County Bar Association to succeed retiring county probate Judge William P. Wright.

The recommendation in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously by those at the bar meeting earlier this week, will be forwarded to Gov. William G. Milliken who is to appoint Judge Wright's successor, according to Atty. William Bull, Paw Paw, the county bar's secretary-treasurer.

The county bar held its special meeting to consider the vacancy created by Judge Wright's resignation which is effective Dec. 31.

Judge Wright announced his resignation, along with that of his wife who is probate register, after a salary dispute in October, with the Van Buren county board of supervisors.

Judge Wright, 73, served as probate judge for about 21 years.

Crockett Cleared By 5 To 4 Decision

Controversial Detroit Judge

DETROIT (AP) — The chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court has indicated that charges of improper judicial conduct have been dropped against Judge George Crockett Jr., of Detroit Recorder's Court.

Meanwhile, the Detroit Free Press said it learned that the Judicial Tenure Commission, the agency with which the charges were filed, has decided by a 5-4 vote to drop its investigation of Crockett.

Chief Justice Thomas E. Brennan was asked by a television interviewer, Lou Gordon, what the Judicial Tenure Commission was doing with the Crockett case.

"I'm satisfied," Brennan replied, "they've done all they are going to do on it. I'm coming to that conclusion based on negative activity by the commission."

Brennan declined to comment when asked if he had been notified of a final decision on Crockett by the commission.

The commission's proceedings, under law, are held in secret. The commission's chairman, Judge John H. Gillis of the Michigan Court of Appeals, declined on the status of his investigation of Crockett.

Under rules set by the State Supreme Court, the commission's deliberations must be kept secret until the point at which it files formal charges against a judge. If the commission finds no cause for action against a judge accused of misconduct, it is not permitted to reveal the fact.

The Free Press said it learned that Crockett was accused of 7 acts of improper conduct on the bench.

The newspaper said more than 50 of the charges were contained in affidavits filed by Detroit policemen.

CRITICIZED BY MANY
Crockett was criticized by a number of persons for his handling of events surrounding the March 29 shooting of one white policeman, wounding of another and subsequent wounding of four Negro citizens at the New Bethel Baptist Church in Detroit.

Crockett was assailed for ordering the release of a number of persons arrested by police. Police said tests showed some of the person had signs of nitrate on their hands, indicating they may have fired weapons.

Crockett said he acted properly in releasing the prisoners who, he said, had not been given access to legal counsel before they were administered the tests.

No Local Milk Price Hike—Yet

Increases Noted In Chicago, Detroit

Milk price increases announced in Chicago and South Bend areas in recent days were followed by announcement today in Detroit of a one-cent a quart boost there, effective Monday.

A dairy industry spokesman in southwestern Michigan said no price increase for milk has been scheduled in this area, but that the situation in the surrounding markets is being watched here.

The Detroit retail milk hike will bring the average price there to 32 cents for a quart of milk. Ice cream will go up to an average of 72 cents a half-gallon. Prices of milk, ice cream, and cottage cheese increased by one cent last August.

The price hikes in Detroit were blamed on rising costs of labor, repairs, fuel, taxes and interest rates on short term loans, according to the Food Industry Council of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce.

Michigan Man Killed In Crash

KENDALL, Ind. (AP) — A 46-year-old Sturgis, Mich., man was fatally injured Friday night, police said, when the car he was driving slid through a stop sign at a rural intersection into the path of another car.

The victim was identified as Leroy Steier who died about two hours after the accident.

Sound Of Cash Is Good Music

Another $88 Donated By Good Fellows

The sound of $88 dropping into The Herald-Press Good Fellow campaign—like the 88 keys on a piano—makes a merry sound on a cold, wintery day.

The Christmas season really opened with a flourish with action on many fronts.

The Good Fellow office was busy too as the $88 was added to the $647 we had after the first week of the drive to push the total to $735. That means we have $2,765 to go to the $3,500 goal.

That $3,500 is a goal that can be topped — it has every year since the Lions of St. Joseph and later the Lions of Lakeshore took over the Newsie sale. The greater the contributions to the Good Fellow fund the more we can be certain that no one from the youngest in the biggest families to the oldest grandparent living alone will be forgotten at Christmas time — when everyone wants to be remembered.

The Marian Guild of St. Joseph Catholic Church sends along $10 as its annual contribution, interrupting its busy schedule to make the gift. The Guild, too, has aided many deserving families at various holidays.

Grandchildren Robert, Teresa and Mark sent $3 in memory of Maria Schroeder. Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary No. 128 of Stevensville held a meeting recently and voted to send its annual contribution of $5.

IN MEMORY
There is $20 in memory of Robert W. Roe, well-known St. Joseph printing executive, from Anne Ruppel.

Farmers and Merchants National bank has complete facilities for writing checks and did just that, pushing the total up with a $50 contribution.

BH Women's Letter Stirs Milliken's Heart

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken called Friday for greater U.S. involvement in relief programs for victims of the civil war in Nigeria.

Milliken made the remarks in responding to a letter from Mrs. Lulu Lee and Mrs. Carol Slavin, two Benton Harbor women active in the Biafran Relief Fund.

"I was appalled to learn," the governor said, "that international agencies now estimate the starvation deaths there total nearly two million and that children in the 2-to-4 year old age group are dying at the rate of 15,000 a day."

Probe Of College To Begin

Prosecutor Charges
Financial Foulup

ROSCOMMON (AP)— Circuit Judge Leon R. Dardas of Bay County will sit as a one-man grand jury in the investigation of alleged financial irregularities at Kirtland Community College here.

Judge Dardas, 53, will open his investigation Tuesday in Roscommon.

The one-man grand jury probe was asked by Prosecutor Norman K. Marsh, who charged misappropriation of "thousands of dollars" and other financial irregularities.

College authorities have denied any wrongdoing. The institution was opened in September of 1968 and has a student body of 350.

Lloyd H. Van Buskirk, resigned earlier this month in the climax to a conflict with his 24-member faculty. Faculty members had demanded a reorganization of his administration. No accusation of wrongdoing was involved.

Holland Girl Murdered In University Library

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — State Police said today a coed at Pennsylvania State University, whose body was found Friday night in a campus library, died of a single stab wound of the chest.

The announcement came some 10 hours after the body of Betsy R. Aardsma, 22, of Holland, Mich., was discovered among the book shelves of the Pattee Library.

A 1969 graduate of the University of Michigan, she had been doing graduate work in English at Penn State.

State Police are conducting an investigation into a "possible homicide" in connection with the death. "We're starting from scratch," said one trooper.

Centre County Coroner Robert Neff, who performed the autopsy, said the girl died of a single puncture wound of the pulmonary artery, inflicted by an unknown instrument.

The Pinkville Incident

Anyone who has served in the armed forces knows that war is a confused and confusing operation requiring for its successful conclusion the doing of many acts which civil precepts hold to be asinine at best or wastefully cruel at worst.

A few months ago the Army disclosed it was contemplating a courts martial for eight Green Beret officers and men on the charge of murdering a Vietnamese civilian.

Secretary Resor scotched the pending trial after public opinion made it reasonably apparent the Berets had dispatched a suspected double agent at the suggestion of CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) field men and that the regular Army establishment in Viet Nam was miffed at the entire Beret organization for reasons entirely unconnected with that bit of summary justice in the jungle.

The eight men, however, did not go unscathed. Most of them already have quit the service knowing their future military careers have reached a dead end.

For nearly two weeks now the country has been bombarded with stories of an action in the obscure village of My Lai, also known as Songmy, on March 16, 1968.

A platoon from Company C, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry, is charged with gunning down several hundred civilians, women, children and older men.

The estimates of this slaughter range as high as 567 persons.

The Army is charging the platoon leader, 1st Lt. William L. Calley, Jr., aged 26, with directing the murder of "not less than 70," and his noncom assistant, St. Sgt. David Mitchell, may be charged with the lesser offense of assault with intent to commit murder.

Trial dates are tentatively scheduled for January and as of the moment the Army intends to keep them closed from the public.

The case received its first exposure in March, 1969, a year after the event, in a long letter penned by a former GI, one Ronald Ridenhour, to several Congressmen and Administration officials. Ridenhour was not an eye witness. He capsulized various accounts from fellow GIs who either were present or had heard about the incident in a zone to which the military had given the code name of Pinkville.

The letter went over to the Pentagon for a checking out.

Rumors of its existence and the investigation forced the story from hiding.

Subsequently two or three former GIs have confirmed individual participation in the action and a few Army officers then close to the Pinkville incident have stated they were aware at the time that Pinkville's casualties might have gone beyond Viet Cong combatants.

Though there have been few military sorties in history which did not punish innocent bystanders, Viet Nam's unpopularity is stirring a hornet's nest over the Pinkville case.

Everyone from President Nixon on down is decrying the incontestable deaths and at the same time overlooking the circumstances surrounding their causation.

Pinkville was a free fire zone in Viet Cong territory, which is to say it was open to blanket bombing and artillery fire from U.S. forces.

The planes and guns caused some, though nobody can say how many, of those civilian losses.

Calley's men caused another set of casualties by close range, small arms fire. The platoon had gone into the village following the softening up attacks by the aircraft and artillery.

With that backdrop in mind, one thus far almost obliterated by public comment, it seems to us that Pinkville has to be judged by one of two measurements:

Is Calley a killer, a loner in reality, who used his uniform, his authority and a situation to perpetrate an act condemned by the Rules of Land Warfare which are an integral part of the U.S. military code and of international law?

Or did Calley conduct the shootout under the impression he was enforcing orders from higher up and in face of the well known fact that in Viet Nam one native looks like another to most American military personnel? Was it a kill or be killed condition normal to virtually all combat missions?

Stated in another way, the second alternative poses the question of the difference between killing innocents from long range, by bombing or artillery fire, and at eye sight level.

As yet unnamed superiors of Lt. Calley checked out the Pinkville case following reports of his platoon having exceeded the purpose of its mission.

The Army calls it a low level investigation. Though it does not describe what it means by low level, the supposition is that it did not go beyond the battalion or regimental phase.

In any event, nothing ensued from the probe and everyone involved continued on his pursuit of carrying the war to the enemy by one means or another.

Currently the Pentagon is probing that probe, seeking to find out what was done or left undone, and why, and who gave the final answer.

The Army and the White House, as well, even though Pinkville occurred in LBJ's tenure, are meeting the issue like a football team with pre-game jitters.

Calley's trial should be conducted in the open, not behind closed doors, so the world can judge for itself if he was operating on his own or as an instrumentality of an imperfect system.

MYSTERIOUS OCCURRENCE AT MARSHALL

—1 Year Ago—

A red tag on the front of your house means danger if you live in Marshall, Mich., where about 15 families had to flee a series of highly volatile, unexplained natural gas geysers early Thanksgiving Day. Thunderous rumblings and 20-foot geysers forced the evacuation of a one-half mile square area Thursday.

Water pressure in wells rose sharply. Swampland bubbled. A 20-foot section of paved street was torn as a geyser of gaseous water erupted from the middle of the rubble.

It was the second time in a month that mysterious underground gas pressure built up in Lower Michigan. Earlier, a seven-mile square area at Lee Township, about 12 miles away in south central Michigan, was punctuated by the gas-and-water geysers.

THINK GAS ODOR FROM REFINERIES

—10 Years Ago—

A strong gas odor in the twin cities - Bridgman area early today resulted in a multitude of telephone calls to fire and police departments. The odor is believed to have been brought by the strong southwest winds from the Whiting, Ind., gasoline refineries. St. Joseph Coast Guard weather records reported the wind velocity during the night and morning as 38 to 49 miles per hour.

Michigan Gas Utilities officials said there was no break or malfunction in any of their equipment or pipeline.

BLASTS I&M COFFERDAM

Erosion along the shore line of Lake Michigan has greatly increased since the Indiana and Michigan Electric company placed a cofferdam of over 200 feet into the lake. Since Labor Day, over 15 feet of dune land has fallen into the water south of that obstacle.

This dam was constructed with approval of the Army Corps of Engineers who failed to notify any adjacent property owners, or public officials. Indeed, the commanding officer stated at a recent public meeting that he did not know that Bridgman had a mayor, or that Bridgman was a city.

Who did he notify? Were officials of other nearby towns, cities, or townships notified?

And was not this construction of a 200-foot dam clearly in violation of the admonitions published in a booklet by the Army Corps of Engineers in September, 1967? In this booklet any obstruction into the Great Lakes is warned against because it will cause "down-drift erosion."

Perhaps now is the time to call into question the entire building of an atomic plant whose dangers and spreading plumes become increasingly apparent month after month. The original plans unveiled by the company showed a discreet building set back from the shore and almost hidden by trees. Now it appears that legs and arms of armor will project out into the lake, despite warnings by, but with the approval of our public servants, the Army Corps of Engineers.

Was this because the I & M engineers didn't know what they were doing, or because the I&M Management didn't want others to know what they were doing?

Somewhere along the line, somewhere at I&M, or at the Army Corps of Engineers someone will realize that Bridgman has a mayor, or at least has some people who are concerned and won't let them get away with it.

..And Speaking Of Your Health

It would seem that there are almost as many kinds of treatment for arthritis as there are people who have it. Millions of dollars are extracted from the pockets of sufferers who seek every conceivable cure within and without the reliable world of medicine. But don't dare argue with anyone who wears a copper bracelet as a sure cure for his own arthritis.

Any contribution to a better understanding of rheumatoid arthritis is always welcome.

A new idea is on Dr. Coleman's horizon which sounds interesting. Dr. Harold Geist of Berkeley, California, believes that there may be a very important relationship between the personality of an individual and his tendency to develop arthritis.

After extensive psychological tests, he came to the conclusion that a special factor exists in patients with rheumatoid arthritis which is triggered by unexpressed anger and "lack of ego strength." Dr. Geist concludes that a special antibody found in emotionally stressed people may be important in a better understanding of why some people develop arthritis. We can be certain that this idea will continue to be investigated.

There are few more distressing experiences than the fracture of a hip in the elderly. It is estimated that almost 200,000 victims of this protracted illness occur annually in the United States alone. Astronomical amounts of money are spent in an effort to return a person to his previous good health. And most of these accidents are avoidable.

In many, a loss of calcium in the hip bone predisposes them to fractures, even after a slight accident. The slow loss of calcium from the bone is known as osteoporosis. Dr. John Cameron of the University of Wisconsin has devised a simple rapid technique by which the mineral or calcium content of the blood can be measured.

Information derived from the brilliant new technique will give physicians immediate information about the fragility of the bones of their patients. They then can prescribe mineral supplements, and possibly hormone, to help strengthen the bone and reduce the possibility of fracture.

This new test may be of great value to younger patients who, after long confinement to bed, are known to lose considerable amounts of minerals by the disuse of their limbs.

It is hoped that, along with this additional knowledge, greater care will be exerted by the elderly to avoid the pitfalls and dangers in and outside of their homes.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: The use of the thermometer must not become a daily ritual in the home. These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. RELIGION TODAY

Many Churches Take To The Round Collar

BY REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

When Germany's famed Catholic theologian Father Karl Rahner addressed the Jesuit-owned University of San Francisco last year, many of the capacity audience were surprised, even aghast, to see him wearing a necktie rather than a round collar.

Neckties rather than round collars appear to have become the custom among many of Europe's priest-theologians, but at the same time the clergy of some of America's most conservative Protestant denominations are beginning to wear clerical collars for the first time.

As an example, the Rev. Orville Easterly, pastor of San Francisco's Calvary Temple, began wearing a round collar one year ago — and is very possibly the first minister to do so in his entire denomination, the de-Kinsolvingly clad conservative Assembly of God.

Not only has his congregation responded with enthusiasm, but he has learned that a number of his fellow Assembly clergy have since begun to do the same thing — even evangelist Robert Fort.

Calvary Temple board member Clyde McKim says: "It's good — it identifies him as a minister." Another board member, George Malloy, commented: "It gives more of a reverend feeling."

Other clergy whose denominations have traditionally used the round collar have found that it is not only one of considerable value in expediting hospital calls (rarely any delays at the desk — or restriction to visiting hours), but it eliminates confusion on pastoral house visits to newcomers: A clergyman so garbed is not likely to be mistaken for a door-to-door salesman.

The round collar is often the invaluable stimulus of a good bit of unofficial counseling or confession when a clergyman appears in a public gathering or a private party: "I don't go to church, but I've always wondered what religion thinks about such and such" is heard by identifiable clergy as often as: "Well, it's not really serious enough to have called a priest about, but as long as you're here..."

The sight of a clerical collar at a public event also evidences some church concern and identification with the affairs of this world. Sometimes this can evoke resentment from some quarters — such as the frequency with which round collars and nun's habits are seen on picket lines. And, as such clergy and nuns can well attest, there is nothing more unrealistic than the old saw about "hiding behind the collar" — which can be just as much of a target as it is, in some cases, a passport.

For the first three or four weeks after ordination, the new minister or priest who wears a collar feels a slight sensation of strangulation. But this is more than compensated for in the sudden awe in which the young man finds himself held by many people. Dear old ladies old enough to be his grandmother address him as "Father," an experience which in its initial impact can be as exhilarating as finding men tipping their hats to him, or even in some cities, finding himself saluted by large Irish policemen. (Such respect does not often extend to amnesties regarding speeding tickets — many clergy being notorious speeders — nor did it impress one municipal court judge when one clergyman explained that he had to drive fast "in order to keep up with sin.")

The clerical collar is a relatively modern development — from the uncomfortable days in which clergy were obliged to wear cassocks (the long black or purple gown) and white scarves, at all times. But the round collar's derivation makes the term "Roman collar" a misnomer.

The present collar worn by all U.S. Catholic priests as well as by most Lutherans, Episcopalians and a growing number of Methodists, Presbyterians, and Congregationalists, among other denominations, was initially manufactured in 1890 in Troy, N.Y., by the shirt and collar manufacturing firm of Cluett and Peabody.

Peabody, a vestryman (church board member) of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was approached by one of his parish's clergy, the Rev. Philip Mosher. The Rev. Mr. Mosher pointed out that an earlier version of the round collar, which had been developed around 1840 by a clerical tailor named Wippl (another Episcopalian) frayed on the edges with continuous washing and wearings, so that clergy necks were constantly being chafed.

Peabody (whose partner Cluett was the father of Sanford Cluett, inventor of the famed Sanforizing method) developed his minister's idea of a double collar to eliminate fraying.

Just how this collar came to be known as a "Roman collar" is as much mystery as the identification of St. Patrick as a Roman Catholic saint. The grave of St. Patrick, whose father and grandfather were both clergy of the ancient and independent church of Britain is believed to be an Anglican (Episcopal) cathedral near Belfast.

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

Ordinarily you are a defender half the time, and either declarer or dummy the other half of the time. It is no wonder, therefore, that defensive play must be viewed as a highly important department of the game.

To defend perfectly is not always easy, and, in fact, it is at times extraordinarily difficult.

Take this hand where West got off on the right foot when he led the jack of hearts in an effort to hit his partner's suit.

Declarer ducked in dummy, losing to East's king, and East returned a heart to dummy's ace. Declarer quite naturally attacked diamonds, forcing out the ace. East returned a heart to South's queen and declarer wound up with ten tricks after losing a club to the ace. All told, he scored a spade, two hearts, four diamonds and three clubs.

Actually the contract should have been defeated. East missed an excellent opportunity when he won the heart lead with the king. Instead, he should have ducked the jack, signaling with the nine to show his interest in the suit. Had he done this, the defense would later have scored three heart tricks as well as their two aces.

East should have assumed that West had precisely J-10-X of hearts. To win the opening lead with the king was almost sure to prove fatal in that case. East needed the king as an entry for his hearts after the queen and ace were gone.

It could be argued that ducking the jack would be losing play if declarer had only Q-x. This is true enough, but the argument falls flat because it places West with J-10-x-x — and with that holding West would have led his fourth best heart, not the jack.

Interpreting West's opening lead was the crux of the matter, and East should have read it as showing precisely J-10-x.

UCF NOW ONLY $11,000 SHORT OF ITS GOAL

Pre-Holiday 'Blitz' Aids Campaign

Some Volunteers Will Work Until End Of Year

Thanks to a pre-Thanksgiving "blitz" effort by United Community Fund volunteers, UCF now is less than $11,000 short of its goal.

A tabulation of United Fund pledges made late Wednesday afternoon showed that UCF now has $556,800, or 98.1 per cent of its $567,488 goal. This was an increase of $12,000 over the previous week.

Although Wednesday marked the conclusion of the formal period of active UCF solicitation, Campaign Chairman Jerry McKinney today said that he and a select group of UCF volunteers will continue their work until the end of the year, if necessary.

"Our volunteers have done a great job in bringing us to a new UCF giving record," McKinney remarked, "but there still are a number of loose ends to tie up that could eventually help us to reach our goal. We haven't really quit; we're just going to be working a little more quietly in the coming weeks."

NEVER REALLY CLOSES

Benjamin Bittner, UCF president, added: "The United Fund campaign never really closes while we're still short of our goal. We'll still be accepting contributions, and seeking them from persons who have not yet given. Jerry is our campaign chairman for the full year in 1969, and he has agreed to stay on the job until Dec. 31."

The United Fund drive officially began on Sept. 15, although there were some advance solicitations through the new UCF "Operation Early Bird." Since that time, United Fund volunteers have broken the old Twin Cities record of $528,000, set last year, by more than $28,000. McKinney said he is certain that the eventual total will go even higher before the end of the year.

The employees of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission office have become the newest winners of the highest UCF award, the Fair Share Giving Award. Three employees pledged $170 for an outstanding average of $56.67. The Rev. Lawrence Crockett was in charge of the solicitation.

It was the second year in a row that Michigan Civil Rights has taken the UCF honor and marks the 40th such award made during the 1969 campaign.

ECUMENICAL MOVEMENT: Once poles apart, the Shriners and Knights of Columbus have discovered that each is a pretty good fellow—especially when it comes to a worthy cause. Benton Harbor Knights of Columbus and the Berrien County Shrine club are sponsoring a spaghetti dinner Thursday at St. John's Catholic church cafeteria. They'll cut the proceeds down the middle for the Shriners Crippled Children's hospital in Chicago and Boysville at Macon, Mich., backed by the K of C's. Charting the menu are (left to right) James Humburg of the K of C; chef Jack Martorano and Irving (Bud) Talbot, Shrine club president. Martorano knows what can be done at Shriners hospitals; his son Joe, 14, is under treatment and making progress for an ailment with a big name, but commonly known as "brittle bone disease" for which the slightest impact can cause a fracture. Dinner tickets at $2 each are available at Talbot's Drug store, Columbus Service store, Reiser mortuary. (Staff photo)

Two Named To Juvenile Chamber Leaders Will Plan Agenda For 1970

DEC. 10 MEETING

Police Officers Are Planners

Two area police officers have been named to the planning committee charged with establishing a juvenile detention and rehabilitation center for the tri-county area.

Det. Robert Irvin of the Benton Harbor police department, youth division, and Fred Foster, an officer with the Dowagiac police department, join other law enforcement officials from Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

In making the announcement, Charles Bazata, chairman on youth, prevention and rehabili-

The board of directors for the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce will hold a day-long board meeting at the Point-of-Woods Country Club on Dec. 10.

A program of work for 1970 will be developed during the 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. session.

Walter Laetz, chamber president, explained the board felt it was important to consult the entire membership before formulating the 1970 program.

"We held four symposiums where members expressed their opinions about problems in the area and teams of two directors are now calling on business leaders in the community to find out what they feel are priority items for next year," Laetz said.

tation for region five law enforcement planning commission, said the two would begin work on the priority project of creating the juvenile center.

He noted the center wouldn't be built for at least two years but that the size and program for the facility needed to be formulated.

PLANNING SESSION: Members of the "Operation Native Son" committee met recently to make plans for the third annual event. It will be held Dec. 30 at the Hilton Inn. Left to right are Jack Wilson and John Hale, Bendix corporation, industry participation; Terry Sanborn, Whirlpool corporation, chairman; William Skea, Whirlpool corporation, vice chairman; and Frank Klemm, Gast Manufacturing Co., publicity. Jay VanDenBerg, Whirlpool corporation, school and student contact, was not present when picture was taken.

Whirlpool Man Is Chairman Of 'Operation Native Son' Here

Terry Sanborn of Whirlpool corporation has been named chairman of the third "Operation Native Son" according to Walter Laetz, president of Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The event will be held Dec. 30 at the Hilton Inn, M-139 and I-94. Registration is from 9 a.m. to 9:30. The program begins at 9:30 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m.

The purpose of the event sponsored by the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and financed by the participating companies is to keep local college graduates working in the area.

It consists of a day of job interviewing for area junior and senior college students interested in careers in business, industry and education. There is no cost to the students who also will be guests at a luncheon given by the participating companies and schools.

This is the third consecutive year for the event held during the Christmas holidays. Over 200 students and 17 industries and schools participated in last year's event.

Other committee members are William Skea, Whirlpool corporation, vice chairman; Frank Klemm, Gast Manufacturing Co., publicity; Jack Wilson and John Hale, Bendix corporation, school and student contact.

A TREE GROWS IN ST. JOE: Three double flowering Kwanzan cherry trees, planted last spring as an experiment to beautify the downtown business section, will be removed. St. Joseph Business di-

St. Joseph Businessmen Want State Street Trees Removed

City of St. Joseph Public Works department crews shortly will remove three Kwanzan double flowering cherry trees from the 200 block of State street on request of the St. Joseph Business division.

The three trees were installed on the west side of the street as an experiment but ran into heavy fire from motorists trying to park around the curbhigh barriers.

The planting of the trees was part of a project to attempt to beautify the main St. Joseph business section. A part of the plan was to fly the 50-state flags from light posts. The wood staffs proved too fragile and the flags have been removed.

The merchants suggested, however, that a committee investigate the possibility of installing the trees on the sidewalks of the east-west streets — Ship, Pleasant, and Broad streets.

The city of St. Joseph didn't say so publicly but they will be happy to comply with the tree removal. City officials anticipated considerable difficulty in snowplowing the west side of State street around the tree wells.

The three trees planted last spring were to be the vanguard of a total of 18 trees. They would occupy a total of six parking spaces.

One of the most vocal critics of the experiment, W. W. (Doc) Nuechterlein, said he noticed several autos scraping their mufflers on the curbs installed around the trees across from his photo shop. He said his main objection was over loss of parking spaces and difficulty in parking around the trees.

Break-In Suspect Held After Shooting Incident

BH Girl, 5, Hospitalized

A five-year-old Benton Harbor girl was hospitalized Friday in an accidental shooting case which led to the arrest of a suspect in a tavern break-in.

Benton Harbor Officer Gary Jennings said the girl, Teresa Dunn, was in fair condition in Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, with a bullet wound of the right shoulder. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Dunn, 268 Hastings street.

Booked on charges of possession of an un-registered gun, possession of stolen property and parole violation was Kenneth Clements, 28, of 1250 Summer street, Jennings said. Clements was visiting the Duns when the shooting occurred.

A .32 calibre automatic pistol was confiscated. The weapon, according to Jennings, was identified as one of two missing from the Spot Tavern, Red Arrow highway, Benton township. The tavern was burglarized sometime early Thursday.

The bullet passed through the girl's shoulder and struck the refrigerator, he reported.

According to township police, the weapon had apparently been taken into the house without knowledge of Dunn. It was discovered after the family returned from shopping.

DEADLY GIFT Benton Man Treated For Gun Wound

M. C. Williams, 59, Townline road, Benton township, was reported in good condition today in Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, recuperating from gunshot wounds to both thighs.

Township police said Williams was shot accidentally when a rifle he was giving to his daughter, Porthena Brown, 19, Saginaw, discharged. The accident occurred about 1:50 p.m. Friday in the Williams home, police said.

The rifle was described as a .22 calibre lever-action model.

M-139 Widening Job Completion Seen Soon

'Ole man winter permitting, the M-139 widening project could be completed by Dec. 30, according to the Michigan state highway department.

Carl Goodwin & Sons, contractors for the $2.2 million job, have just over 30 "working days" left of their contract.

Four lanes on the 1.9 miles of M-139 from I-94 to Ox creek road are now open. Workmen are finishing a fifth lane and work on curbs, gutters and driveways to business establishments.

Major efforts are aimed on three intersections that cross M-139 for completion before heavy winter snows according to department officials. Intersection approaches are at Nickerson, Napier and Pipestone streets.

Panel Suggested
At South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Residents of South Haven are invited to attend an open meeting Monday to discuss the possible formation of a South Haven Area Human Relations Commission, according to John C. "Jack" Jensen, who will preside at the meeting.

The meeting will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall of the Episcopal church on Kalamazoo street between Erie and Superior streets.

'MANY DIFFERENT PEOPLE'

Jensen said, "our objective is to explore and possibly create a better means for communicating the needs and wishes of all minority groups in our overall community." He said the greater South Haven area has many different types of people. He said one of the group's objectives would be how to lower barriers of prejudice and discrimination in such basic areas as job opportunities and housing.

The concept of a South Haven Area Human Relations commission was proposed five years ago by the Kiwanis club, Jensen said. Last year, Jensen said, a group of students at L. C. Mohr high school formed a Human Relations committee. Jensen said, "if they (the students) can communicate freely together, bridging gaps of race, creed and social economic class, surely we adults should try to do so, too."

The appearance of the students, Jensen said, inspired a group of the Church Women United to call a public meeting to explore the possibility of forming such a commission.

OPEN MEETING

Mrs. George Minert, Mrs. William Gross and Mrs. Herbert Nabb arranged a first meeting during which it was decided to hold the open meeting Monday. Mrs. Nabb appointed Mrs. Gross, Mrs. Charles Foster, Mrs. J.G. MacKenzie, Edwin Bocock and Jensen to develop an agenda for Monday's meeting.

In the meantime, the Kiwanis club has created a human relations committee within the club. Members include Jensen as chairman, and Edwin Bocock, Jack Fennell and the Rev. Henry Solem.

Advice Of

Days In Jail

By STEVE MCQUOWN

PAW PAW — Billy Jo Barnett, 21, Hartford, was released from Van Buren county jail this week, 104 days after what proved to be some very bad advice from a friend.

Barnett was arrested Aug. 14, after he failed to appear in Seventh District court here to answer a traffic summons.

While being booked at the jail, Barnett walked away from officers, only to be apprehended several hours later and charged with escape from jail.

Barnett's court-appointed attorney quoted Barnett as saying that he had walked away from the jail after a "friend" told him that failure to answer the traffic summons could bring up to a year in prison.

Barnett asked for a circuit court trial on the escape charge, but on Nov. 11, when he appeared for arraignment, his case was remanded back to the jurisdiction of Judge Luther I. Daines in district court.

On Nov. 12, Barnett pleaded guilty, and still unable to post a $500 bond, was sent back to jail to await results of a pre-sentence study.

On Nov. 26, Barnett appeared again before Judge Daines and was sentenced to 90 days in jail on the escape charge.

He was given credit for time served since Aug. 14, and was released, 104 days after he followed the advice of a "friend."

Hot ChasesDrivers Arrested
On Many Charges

Benton Harbor police and Berrien county sheriff's deputies reported two unrelated high speed chases early today resulted in the arrest of two 19-year-old drivers.

Benton Harbor Officer Robert Massengale and Auxiliary Policeman James Jackson arrested Donnie Ray Jackson, 19, of 251 Lake street, Benton Harbor, about 12:15 a.m.

James Earl Little, 19, Box 129, Coloma, was arrested by Deputies Jack Root and William Achterberg about 2:30 a.m.

PISTOL CONFISCATED

According to Massengale, Connie Ray Jackson was charged with reckless driving, carrying a concealed weapon and possession of an unregistered gun. He said the Jackson auto was pursued at speeds up to 70 miles an hour on Paw Paw avenue before being stopped. A .32 calibre pistol was confiscated from the car, he said.

The sheriff's deputies said Little was charged with fleeing a police officer and reckless driving. According to the officers, they spotted a car heading west on Glenford road, south of St. Joseph, at a high rate of speed and turned around to pursue it.

The officers said they chased the auto at speeds up to 105 miles per hour on Washington avenue and on John Beers road. The vehicle was stopped when another squad car approached it from the opposite direction, Root said.

Young Black
Now Job
Office Chief

DETROIT (AP) — William R. Ford, a young Negro who will be nominated by President Nixon as head of VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), has devoted his life as a student, administrator and teacher to solving problems connected with the urban ghetto.

President Nixon announced Friday he will nominate the 35-year-old Ford as an assistant director of the Office of Economic Opportunity in charge of the VISTA program.

MESC DIRECTOR

Since last March, Ford has been director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, the state agency which provides employment services and unemployment benefits.

Ford could not be reached to comment on the appointment.

Gov. William Milliken said Ford's nomination is a "reflection of the caliber of work he did in Michigan."

Frank C. Padzieski, chairman of the state commission, said he would be "sorry to lose him. He understood the problems that involve the unemployed and underemployed."

Both Padzieski and Ford's office said he would be going to Washington Monday, where he is to make public his decision on the Nixon offer.

Ford was born in Highland Park, a city completely surrounded by Detroit.

He received a bachelor's degree in 1957 in physical, biological, and social sciences from Michigan State University. He obtained a master's degree from MSU in 1959 in administrative and educational services and psychology.

Ford also completed all the requirements for a doctor's degree except a dissertation. He has a permanent certificate for teaching the socially maladjusted and emotionally disturbed child.

From 1957 to 1963, Ford taught mathematics and science at Lansing Boys' Training School, a state school aimed at rehabilitating problem youths.

He served as consultant on special programs for the Michigan Department of Public Instruction from 1963-64; state executive director of job training projects for the Michigan Catholic Conference in 1965-66, and director of the Michigan Economic Opportunity Office from 1966-68.

In the latter office, he was responsible for implementing and coordinating all aspects of the anti-poverty programs in Michigan. In 1967, he made a national tour of urban ghettos with then-Gov. George Romney.

He is married and the father of three children, Eric, 10; Natalie, 8, and Todd, 3.

20.4 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — Reports of major crime increased 20.4 per cent for October in Detroit, Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen announced this week.

The figures for last month were compared to statistics for October, 1968. For the first 10 months of the year crime increased 12.5 per cent compared to a year earlier. Spreen's figures were for major crimes only.

All crime was up 17 per cent for October and 8.4 per cent for the year.

Helicopter Pilot Saves Children, Wins Medal On Day Of 'Massacre'

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

A helicopter pilot whose complaint led to an Army inquiry into the alleged My Lai massacre won a heroism award for saving 16 children there, in South Vietnam, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky says he has asked for a new investigation of the incident.

Chief WO Hugh C. Thompson Jr., 27, confirmed Friday at Ft. Rucker, Ala., that he had received the Distinguished Flying Cross for bravery at My Lai on March 16, 1968—date of the alleged slaughter.

Thompson, of Decatur, Ga., declined to give any details but sources disclosed that the citation was awarded for his action in saving the lives of 16 Vietnamese children at "personal disregard for his own safety."

Pentagon sources in Washington Friday said it was Thompson whose complaint touched off the Army's initial investigation of the alleged massacre. They declined to elaborate.

ORIGINAL INQUIRY
Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor told congressmen Wednesday that the original inquiry stemmed from a helicopter pilot who "suggested there might have been unnecessary killing of noncombatants at My Lai."

Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. has been formally charged with the premeditated murder of 109 South Vietnamese villagers in My Lai. Twenty-six men are under investigation in the case, 15 of them now civilians.

In Saigon, Ky. said today he has asked the South Vietnamese Defense Ministry to conduct a further investigation of the incident.

An earlier inquiry ordered by President Nguyen Van Thieu concluded that the massacre reports were "completely inaccurate"—despite the fact that the U.S. Army had already filed charges against Calley.

Ky and Thieu have often been at odds and Ky is known for his independent political manner and public statements that sometimes clash with official government policy.

KY NOT SATISFIED
Appearing at the dedication of a high school library, Ky told newsmen today that he was "not satisfied" with the previous investigation. His statement came two days after a leading opposition politician, Sen. Tran Van Don, said he would conduct a new investigation.

The earlier inquiry ordered by Thieu was carried out by Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the northernmost 1st Corps Tactical Zone. His lengthy report was based entirely on results of previous investigations by province and district officials.

It concluded that about 20 civilians were killed by American artillery and air strikes during a battle with Viet Cong in the village but that there had been no mass slaying of civilians by U.S. ground troops.

Ky said he could accept that some civilians are killed in the heat of battle, "but afterwards, if innocent civilians are killed in cold blood, I cannot accept."

Meanwhile, Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, named judge for Calley's case, was concerned that potential witnesses are continuing to talk to newsmen. He met at Ft. Benning, Ga., with attorneys for the prosecution and defense.

REFUSES COMMENT
Kennedy refused to comment afterward on what powers he had for restricting witnesses or news media, but a Pentagon spokesman said Kennedy would have the same powers as a federal judge.

The spokesman said it was not known what penalties the judge could assess but that once a potential witness had been notified by registered letter to refrain from talking except to authorized persons the judge presumably could act.

The spokesman indicated that Kennedy had no power to penalize the press if it obtained interviews.

The Paper of Oshkosh, Wis., published an interview Friday with a former infantryman who said he had "witnessed many civilians being shot down like clay pigeons" while serving in the Chu Lai area, about 22 miles north of My Lai.

Terry Reid, now a factory worker at Fond du Lac, said in the interview that in one instance U.S. troops "shot into the village at people walking around" and afterward "counted 60 dead bodies—women, children and maybe a few old and decrepit men."

Reid, 22, said he did not take part in any of the civilian shootings and broke his silence about the incidents only because of the news stories about My Lai. He did not name specific villages or dates for the incidents.

The Chicago Sun-Times printed two pictures in today's edition showing a Vietnamese prisoner allegedly being dropped to his death from a U.S. helicopter. It said the photos were taken by the pilot of a second helicopter. The story and photos were copyrighted.

The Sun-Times said the pictures came from a suburban teacher who had known the pilot-photographer for some time.

A letter accompanying the photos explained that the prisoner and two other Vietnamese were captured in a presumed Viet Cong tunnel complex and interrogated.

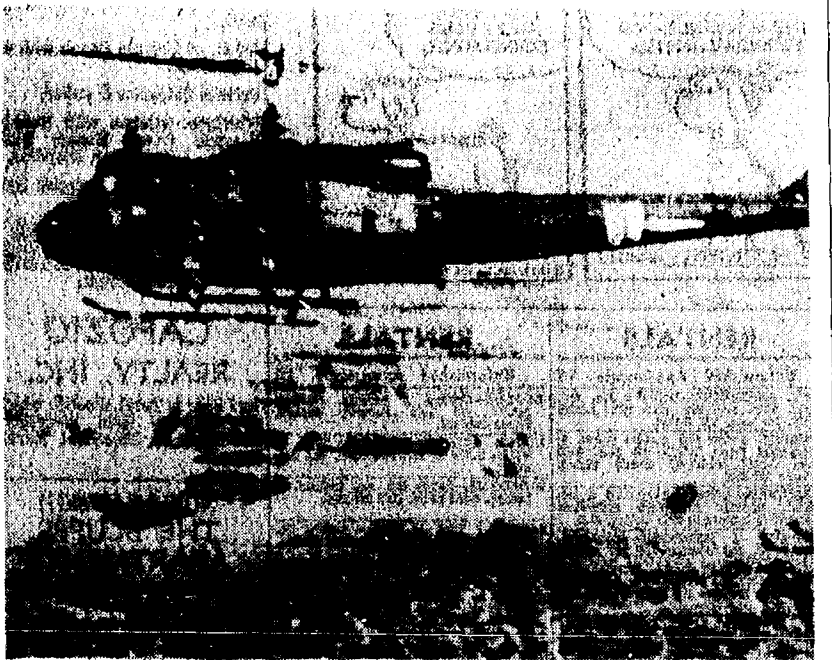

"This guy wouldn't talk, so out he went," the letter reportedly said. "Funny, the other two didn't stop talking after that, and a lot of valuable information was gained."

In New York, Ralph Ginzburg, publisher of Avant-Garde magazine, said Friday the Army had refused to investigate allegations made in 1968 that some U.S. helicopter pilots had murdered Vietnamese civilians "for sport."

He said Army Secretary Resor "completely ignored" the charges contained in an article written by Lt. Thomas F. Liffin III in the January 1968 issue of the magazine.

Resor's office had no immediate comment.

Loffin wrote that he had heard pilots and others talk about killing civilians but did not claim to have witnessed any such acts.

DANGLING PRISONER: This photo is said to show a Vietnamese prisoner of war dangling from a U.S. Army helicopter during interrogation over Vietnam. The Sun-Times said it received the picture from a Chicago school teacher, Alan Jones, 22, Oak Forest, Ill. Jones said he received it from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones of New York City. A letter from the pilot, that accompanied the photo and a handwritten caption on the rear of the Polaroid prints, say that the man was a prisoner and was dropped to his death when he refused to provide information. FALLING TO HIS DEATH: And this photo, is said to show a Vietnamese war prisoner falling to his death after refusing to provide information during interrogation. Picture was given to Chicago paper by a Chicago school teacher, Alan Jones, 22, Oak Forest, Ill., who said he received it via his parents from a helicopter pilot. The newspaper said that a letter and caption accompanying the photo said it was taken by the pilot who was in a chopper, acting as escort to the ship shown here. Escapee From Cong Stirring Hot Dispute In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former U.S. prisoner of war has raised a congressional stir. He says peace demonstrations and statements by Senate Vietnam critics "helped break the spirit of Americans (POWs) and boost the morale of the Viet Cong."

Ma, James Rowe, says Sen. Stephen Young, D-Ohio, and Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., is being used by the Army to discredit dissent and influence congressional policy on the war.

Rowe's congressional defenders say he is reporting facts Americans should know.

HELD 5 YEARS
Rowe is a former Special Forces officer who escaped from the Viet Cong last year after being held five years in a dank U Minh Forest base camp, deep in the Mekong Delta.

He said his cover story was blown just before his escape when an unnamed U.S. peace group supplied his captors with his biography. Official accounts place Rowe as the lone American for years at his base camp prison.

Rowe has taped television interview with some 20 congressmen and made a 30-minute film for the Republican National Congressional Committee.

Army liaison officers helped arrange the interviews.

He testified before the House Armed Services Committee early this month and then met with President Nixon and Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland.

Rowe says American POWs largely ignored Hanol's propaganda until late 1967 when it began quoting U.S. senators by name and citing U.S. newspaper, magazine and news agency reports of antiwar demonstrations.

He told the House committee he referred to statements made by senators including Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee, George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

"The peace demonstrators and the disheartening words of these senators made our life most difficult," Rowe told the committee. "It helped to break the spirit of Americans and boost the morale of the Viet Cong."

Sen. Young charged this week that "public relations men in the Pentagon" were promoting attacks on congressional war critics in violation of separation of the military from politics "seeking to discredit them or to bring about their defeat in the 1970 elections."

"Ma, Rowe," Sen. Young said, "should be censured or assigned to some other post of duty (outside Washington). A tour in the Aleutian Islands or some post in remote Turkey might cause his mouthings to be silenced."

Young and Rep. Ryan said Rowe's Capitol Hill activities also violate constitutional separation of executive and legislative powers.

But three House members rallied to Rowe's defense on the House floor when Rep. Ryan criticized his activities and said the military role in the American system "does not include partisan politics or attempting to play a political part in the system by influencing policy."

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said Rowe "never impugned the patriotism or integrity of any member of this body or the other body (the Senate)" but simply recalled the impact of some of their antiwar statements on his morale when he was a Viet Cong prisoner.

"That is a statement of fact," Stratton said, "and it is a fact I believe, that ought to be known to the American people."

Reps. William L. Dickinson, R-Ala., and Ed Foreman, R-N.M., accused Ryan of basing his criticism on news accounts with Rowe's televised interviews with congressmen without knowing all the facts.
